Dignity Care: Taking care of mom in her last days...A practical guide on how to give courteous and respectful care to someone who is bedridden By Nita Dulin

The doctors gave her six months. Committed to taking care of her, I packed my things and my 6 year old son and moved back home to upstate New York to take care of mom. I was determined to make sure she was well taken care of. Mom was a proud lady so preserving her dignity and privacy was my priority as she went from taking solo walks, to being bedridden, to saying goodbye, to inhaling her last breath.
